

Praise for You Can Make It Heaven by Rebecca Skeele

“A vision that can inspire us to escape the pettiness and failings that divide and limit us. This vision...begins with the individual and honors the divine element that is inherent in everyone. Skeele is an experienced guide who writes with clarity and compassion.”

Larry Dossey, MD, author of Healing Beyond the Body, Reinventing Medicine, and Healing Words, executive editor of Alternative Therapies in Health and Medicine

“Excellent tools for recognizing new possibilities and self-liberation.”

Mindquest Reviews

“A simple, sweet, powerful book about remembering who we are and reconnecting with why we’re really here. It’s a vital part of humanity’s emerging new story.”

Martin Rutte, coauthor of Chicken Soup for the Soul at Work

“This timely book is packed with a variety of aids to help readers move forward in their life.”

Review, Las Cruces Sun Times

“Following the principles this book brings forward will surely result in a spirit-filled life of heaven on earth.”

Ronald Hulnick, PhD, president of the University of Santa Monica

“With the eradication of limiting beliefs comes a leap from glimpsing new options to implementing them...life suddenly sparkles with excitement. Examine that story and move on—the rest of your life is waiting.”

Article, March 2003 The Seattle New Times

“Heaven is inside us, in our working hands, in our creative imaginations, and in our loving hearts. Rebecca Skeele is a teacher, reminding and coaching the reader that with practice, reeducation, and forgiveness our lives are heaven! The message of this book is precise and practical: happiness, well-being, and success are limitless, and so are we.”

Christina Johnson, MA, author of Love Language

“I quieted the litany of past failures and disappointing behaviors with kindness and allowed my own humanness to know its innate goodness.”

From article in November issue of the Eldorado Sun

“As a business consultant for over thirty years, I have seen many individuals trapped or imprisoned in a life they would not have chosen. In reading You Can Make It Heaven, I have found...sufficient advice to enable these individuals to begin the journey toward the life they were meant to have.”

Rob Reider, author of Operational Review, Benchmarking Strategies, and Improving the Economy, Efficiency, and Effectiveness of Not-for-Profits

“Personal limitations can become doorways to joy, peace, and inner fulfillment. This is a simple and profound guide, written with humor and practical know-how, to help shift our perspective and create “heaven” now. We need this kind of guidance today. Beautifully written...a book to read again and again.”

Diane Von Welanetz Wentworth, author of Send Me Someone, coauthor of Chicken Soup for the Soul Cookbook

“Rebecca Skeele offers us a look into the deepest and clearest pond of spring water at her journey to her self. And as we observe, the image sweetly turns into our own. In these pages are precious droplets of rich awakening and a coming home to the divine within.”

Kelle Olwyler, president of Kel Bergan Consulting, coauthor of Paradoxical Thinking

“Rebecca Skeele’s truth, integrity, and inner wisdom guide us to a deeper understanding of life’s journey. This book draws the reader to an inner space of reflection and solitude, which creates a greater awareness of one’s essential being. It reminds us to more fully connect with the rich threads of our stories, visions, and dreams, to weave a tapestry in our healing journey.”

Barbara Dossey, RN, MS, HNC, FAAN, author of Florence Nightingale, Holistic Nursing, and Rituals of Healing
